

Family outing! Kourtney and Khloe Kardashian take their men on a cosy double date

In a clear sign that Kourtney Kardashian approves of her sister Khloe's relationship with French Montana she and her man Scott Disick joined them for lunch

The Kardashians certainly love to keep it in the family and so it was no surprise to see Kourtney and Khloe lunching together with their men this week.

Yes, French Montana really is already part of the family.

But this being the Kardashian sisters, the double-date attracted the attention of the paparazzi and of course the locals who spotted them at New York restaurant

→ Philippe Chow.

The fact that the first episode of the new season of the family's reality TV show Keeping Up With The Kardashians has just aired in the US is surely no coincidence?

Well, either way the pairs looked totally loved up - despite reality star Khloe STILL not confirming if she's officially dating rapper French.

The couples, who were all casually dressed, looked relaxed and happy on the outing.

While Khloe showed off her toned figure in tight grey jeans and a chequered shirt, Khloe dressed up for the occasion in a short black number - flaunting A LOT more leg than her older sister.

Scott had his arm round his pregnant fiancée throughout most of the trip out, and matched the casual theme in white shorts and a baggy grey t-shirt.

Meanwhile, French didn't go nearly as far as his date when it came to impressing in the clothes department, choosing some baggy grey tracksuit bottoms and a t-shirt - but we'll let him off since they all look so close and happy.

In recent weeks Khloe has made efforts for French to spend time with her family, and the pair looked really loved up in a video of them dancing together as she supported him at the MTV Africa Music Awards.

Which was really all the confirmation we needed there's romance in the air.

Khloe, Kourtney and her partner Scott Disick all attended sister Kim's wedding to Kanye West in Italy too - but poor French couldn't make that one.

While Khloe has not publicly confirmed her relationship, lunching publicly with her sister and Scott will do little to dispel rumors.

Could it be that the pair, both 29, are getting serious and that another Kardashian show-stopper wedding is on the cards?

It certainly wouldn't do any harm to the show's ratings.