

Kourtney's Pregnant!

Oh, baby! Kardashian and love Scott Disick have No. 3 on the way

Dressed in a flowy white top and her favorite Alexander McQueen motorcycle jacket, Kourtney Kardashian accompanied longtime love Scott Disick on a double date with her sister Khloé and French Montana at NYC's Philippe restaurant May 31. The group snacked on the famed chicken satay at their cozy table upstairs. "They were laughing and enjoying the night," says a witness. While the others sipped wine, the eldest Kardashian opted for her go-to beverage of late: ginger ale. Says the witness, "Kourtney was not drinking."

Make that not drinking for two! Multiple sources tell Us the E! star is pregnant with her third child. "She is only a few months along," a family insider says of the mom of son Mason, 4, and daughter Penelope, 23 months. A second source in her inner circle says of the new addition, "It was planned. She wants to have a handful of kids." While a close source confirms Kourtney, 35, and Disick, 31, will welcome their child in December, the family insider notes, "They don't know the gender yet. They just want the baby to be healthy."
