

Where to Eat and Drink Outdoors This Spring in NYC

Now that Spring has decided to grace us with her presence, temperatures are coasting back to the 60s and 70s and NYC is starting to come alive again. Flowers are blooming, the air is crisp with newness as new restaurant menus take advantage of the seasons harvest. So grab your family and friends and make your way to the below hot spots all round the city that are full of lush greenery, killer views, innovative cocktails and of course...beautiful people.

For Rooftop Views:

Ophelia (Midtown East)

With 360-degree views of the city skyline and the East River, this art-deco styled lounge at the top of the Beekman Tower makes a sophisticated addition to your summer rooftop checklist.

Try new seasonal cocktails crafted by Amir Babayoff including the Aegean Paloma with ouzo, grapefruit rose, pink peppercorns, and rosewater.
